

Rite 9 - The Creator rite

The Creator holds stewardship for all of creation

The creator rite connects you to the light within yourself – the Source within – so you co-create your life. It brings the cellular realization that spirit is not only acting through you but as YOU, ineffable Pure Consciousness. This rite has never been available before on the planet. Although there were individuals who attained this level of initiation and awakened their Christ consciousness or Buddha nature, it was never possible to transmit these from one person to another until today.

This rite previously transmitted rarely, and only directly from spirit to humans, was brought forth and gifted to the Inka elders in the Andes during the summer of 2006. It now offers us the possibility of human to human transmission for all those who find ourselves called to this work, and are prepared to take on the gift of love and responsibility it entails.

With this final rite of the Munay-Ki we awaken the God-light within ourselves and acquire stewardship for all Creation, from the tiniest atom within a grain of sand, to the largest cluster of galaxies within the expansive universe.

The creator opens up the opportunity to realize, at a cellular level, that spirit is not only acting through us, but as us! We can consistently access that place of oneness and recognize that it does not reside outside of us. That it is, as it has always been, within us, newly awakened from its dormant state and ready for service to the highest good of all.

TRANSMITTING THE CREATOR RITE

This rite is unlike all the previous rites

To begin the protégé gives their pi-stone to the mentor. With the protégé seated the mentor stands behind them. Ground to Pachamama. The mentor opens personal sacred space and encompasses the protégé within (Wiracocha).

The mentor opens arms bent at elbows, shaped like a “W” calls for the creator to come. Opening arms wide, connect to the vortex of energy above the head. Allow the vortex of energy to come down to your head and shoulders

Placing hands on the shoulders to encourage balance of the Divine Feminine and Masculine energies.

The mentor places the pi-stone on the crown and making a tube formation blows through the tube down through the chakra system to prepare for the Creators rite transmission

The mentor now sits facing the protégé.

Placing both hands on their heart center attunes to the energies of the creators.

Holding the intention of attuning the protégé the mentor leaves one hand upon the heart and places the other over the protégé’s belly to allow the attunement to take place, connecting to the Power of the Creators.

The mentor returns their hand to their heart chakra and repeats this process for the protégé at the heart, connecting to the Unconditional Love of the Creators, and third eye chakra, connecting to the vision, the clarity and understanding of the Creators.

With both hands upon the heart center, the mentor affirms their intention of transmitting this rite to the protégé

Again holding intention of transmitting the rite, and removing themselves from the process of transmission, leans forward so both foreheads are touching, maintaining this position to allow transmission to take place.

The mentor releases the protégé and returns to upright position with both hands at the heart, and allows the Creators to complete their work and withdraw.

The mentor takes the pi-stone and places it within the protégé's cupped hands

Holding the former protégé's hands and protégé's Pi stone within their own, and holding the recognition of the equality that now exists between them and releasing them, the mentor blow the Creator rite into the former protégé's hands and Pi stone.

This is a symbolic representation of releasing them to the joys and responsibilities of becoming a mentor in their own right and a severing of their former relationship as tutor and pupil.

The mentor places the former protégé's hands, still holding the Pi stone, at their heart center in the prayer position.

The mentor returns their own hands to prayer position at their own heart.

Mentor closes personal sacred space (Wiracocha).

Congratulate initiate for receiving the Creators rite and becoming the Mentor.
